Severe Winter Storm Warning

Another major storm will bring heavy rain and wind beginning tonight

Another major winter storm is expected to arrive in the early hours of tomorrow morning. The National Weather Service has issued a flood watch and a high wind watch beginning at 4:00 a.m. on Wednesday, January 4 (tonight!) through Thursday afternoon.

Periods of heavy rain and strong winds are expected for the duration of the storm. We anticipate localized flooding in low-lying and flood-prone areas, and flooded roadways are possible. Strong winds are likely to bring down tree branches. There may be power outages.

PREPARE NOW

- Secure outdoor objects that could be blown over by the wind (patio furniture, sports equipment, trash cans, etc.)
- Dispose of leaves and other yard debris in green bin to clear a path for water to move through gutters and storm drains
- Set up sandbags in flood prone areas – sandbag stations are available at the Blackie’s Pasture overflow lot and the Marsh Road parking lot near the tennis courts. Learn how to sandbag.
- Make sure your emergency kit is up to date.
- Sign up for Alert Marin to receive emergency updates. Bookmark emergency.marincounty.org to stay up to date on the latest weather updates.

STAY SAFE

- Avoid unnecessary travel. Roads will be slippery, and flooding may prevent you from returning home.
- Stay away from downed power lines. Always assume a downed line is live, and call 911.
- If you must drive, use extra caution.
- Do not walk or drive around barricades or through standing water. If it’s an emergency, allow emergency responders to come to you.
